ICY WATERS AROUND THEM

Rescuers Have Trouble in Reaching Them—Boys May Be in Tunnel.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A rescue party of men and dogs was sent out today to search for two boys who were reported to have been trapped in a tunnel near the city of Chicago. The boys were last seen on the 10th of December, and their parents are very anxious to hear from them.

The rescue party was led by a man named John Doe, who is a well-known rescuer in the city. He was accompanied by a dog named Spot, who is known for his ability to find people in difficult situations.

The party was out for several hours, but was unable to find the boys. They are now searching for them in the icy waters around the tunnel.

The boys are believed to be in the tunnel, and the rescue party is working to reach them as soon as possible.

The parents of the boys are very worried, and are hoping that the rescue party will find them soon.
